1. Introduction
A central function of any government involves collecting and spending public funds and maintaining records of such expenditures. National budgets are at the core of government activity: they provide a clear picture of what the national priorities are, and where governments can make efficiency gains. From that perspective, timely and concise budget analysis is necessary for policymaking. Despite their relevance for policymakers, public budgets are usually hard to access and understand, even though IT-based applications can open doors for analysis and policymaking. In that spirit, the World Bank has collaborated with governments around the World to create easy-to-use public expenditure databases that make budgets accessible, understandable, and ready to use.

For the last couple of years, the Government of Togo has been embarked in an effort to make its budget more rigorous and clear. As part of its commitment with a more efficient and effective Public Financial Management, the Government of Togo created, jointly with the World Bank, a public expenditure database to track and analyze public expenditures.

The purpose of this project was to construct a comprehensive database of Togo’s budget by collecting disaggregated revenues and expenditures executed by the central government from data provided by the Secretary of Reform for the period between 2009 and 2012, and presenting the final product in a user-friendly manner. This is a tool designed for budgetary analysis by public officials and researchers. This manual describes the database and provides the information necessary to analyze Togo public expenditures. This document is organized as follows:

- Part II outlines the structure of the data provided by the Togolese Government.
- Part III presents the organization of the database.
- Part IV explains how to use the database with an Excel pivot table.

The Togo Expenditure Database was built as part of the BOOST project. The purpose of the BOOST project (started by the World Bank in early 2010) is to enhance budget analysis across the globe by improving access to government expenditure data and linking spending to outputs and outcomes to the extent of possibilities. As of August 2012, the BOOST Team has collected and processed detailed government expenditure data from more than twenty countries across four regions, creating easy-to-use databases that have been employed by World Bank researchers and policymakers on a variety of projects. As of today, 10 countries have agreed to make their databases publicly available. A BOOST consists of three Excel spreadsheets: the first one, called “TOC”, describes the variables of the database. The second one, called “Raw Data”, contains information at the line level and can be used by experts in budget and Excel to do in-depth analyses. “Raw Data” also feeds into the sheet “Pivot”, which allows users to do customized tables using Excel’s Pivot Table functionality.

The core BOOST team for Togo consists of Hans Hoogeveen (jhoogeven@worldbank.org), Massimo Mastruzzi (mmastruzzi@worldbank.org), Yemdaogo Tougma (ytougma@worldbank.org), and Francisco Vazquez-Ahued.
(fvazquezahued@worldbank.org). Please feel free to contact us with any questions or suggestions about BOOST.

We hope this database is helpful in opening new avenues of analysis and providing answers to important questions regarding the efficiency, equity, and effectiveness of government spending.
2. Structure of Database
The data for Togo includes expenditures executed by different agencies of the central government. The data is disaggregated by economic, functional, and administrative classification. It also allows identifying the source of funding for a given project.

As far as expenditures are concerned, the Togo database presents 7 stages of the budgetary cycle:

- Approved budget, which is the budget voted by the National Assembly.
- Revised Budget, which is the budget reviewed by the National Assembly.
- Authorization, which is the spending ceiling for a given budget line. This constrain is determined by the Ministry of Finance.
- Engagement, which is the expenditure committed (budgetary perspective) and recognized (accounting perspective).
- Liquidation, which is an estimation of the exact amount to be paid to a beneficiary.
- Commitment, which is the exact amount to be paid to a beneficiary.
- Payment, which is the payment executed by the Treasury.

For comparison purposes, Table 1 classifies the variables of the Togo database according to the economic, functional, and administrative classifications of other BOOST public expenditure databases created by the World Bank.

$^1$ The variable sous-chapitre is only available for the transfer and the investment expenditures. In order to provide more clarity on the assignation of resources, this variable was broken in four new columns. Variables source_fin1, 2, and 3 correspond to investment projects and identify who is providing the resources for the specific budget line. Variable “project2” corresponds to transfers, and identifies the organization, within or outside the government, that benefited from a specific transfer.

$^2$ Variable Chapitre was broken down in two parts. The first part identifies the third level of the administrative classification and is available for all the ECON1 categories with the exception of public investment. The second part identifies the investment projects by name and is available only for the investment projects.

2.1 Particularities of the Data

Compared with other datasets, the Togo database presents the following particularities:

- Inclusion of three levels of source of funding for investment expenditures.\(^3\)
- Identification of the beneficiaries of government transfers.\(^3\)
- Two levels of geographic classification.
- The main limitations of the database are:
  - The budget lines financed by donors, either through loans or grants, contain information up to the level of “authorization”.
  - The geographic classification is reliable only for the “dotation” and “autreise” parts of the budget cycle. For the rest of the budget cycle, the information is allocated almost in its entirety to Lome.
  - Given the lack of integration between SIGFIP and the treasury systems, the data could not be reconciled for the executions. However, the budget data is reconciled against the TOFE available in the website togoreforme.com, which is the repository of public data created by the Togolese Government.

\(^3\) This breakdown is originally provided by the variable sous-chapitre, which was broken down in four different variables for ease of analysis.
3. How to use the Togo Database. Some examples

For ease of use, the BOOST team has developed a standard user interface through which to access the BOOST government expenditure database with the help of Excel PivotTables.

A PivotTable report is an interactive way to quickly summarize large amounts of data. Use a PivotTable report to analyze numerical data in detail and to answer unanticipated questions about your data. A PivotTable report is especially designed for:

- Querying large amounts of data in many user-friendly ways.
- Subtotaling and aggregating numeric data, summarizing data by categories and subcategories, and creating custom calculations and formulas.
- Expanding and collapsing levels of data to focus your results, and drilling down to details from the summary data for areas of interest to you.
- Moving rows to columns or columns to rows (or “pivoting”) to see different summaries of the source data.
- Filtering, sorting, grouping, and conditionally formatting the most useful and interesting subset of data to enable you to focus on the information that you want.
- Presenting concise, attractive, and annotated online or printed reports.4

PivotTables are straightforward and easy to use and allow for quick, customizable analyses of large amounts of data. This section presents several examples of using the BOOST PivotTable interface to general custom reports. With BOOST, as with many things in life, the best way to learn is by doing.5

---

5 The minimum technical requirements for using the Moldova BOOST government expenditure database are as follows: (i) a computer with at least 1 GB of RAM (2 GB preferred); (ii) Microsoft Excel version 2007 or later (or similar database software that allows loading of files with at least one million lines of data).
3.1. Example 1. Trend Analysis by Ministry

Figure 2 below presents a simple example of time trend analysis at the macro level. It reports total government expenditures from 2009 to 2011, broken down by the top-level functional classification. To generate this PivotTable, ADMIN2 is placed in the Row Labels box, Year in the Column Labels box, and the values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the Mandat Prise en Charge variable. Please note that the column corresponding to 2012 presents values of 0 because the data was not available at the moment these guidelines were drafted.

Do it yourself: how would you generate a similar table using the functional (Secteur) instead of the administrative classification?
3.2. Example 2. Composition Breakdown

Figure 3 below presents a breakdown of 2009 government expenditures by economic category and sub-category for each sector in the Togolese functional budget classification. To generate this PivotTable, ECON1 and ECON2 are placed in the Row Labels box, FUNCTION1 in the Column Labels box and the Year (2009) variable is used as a filter. The values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the executed variable.

3.3. Example 3. Disentangling the Investment Budget

As mentioned previously, the Togolese database allows doing queries by the three different types of funding sources: public treasury, borrowing, and subvention. One of the main limitations of the database, however, is that emprunt and subvention, which are financed by donors and multilateral institutions, contain data only through authorization. The lack of data on donors’ funded project is related with reporting and not with execution. If one wants to do deviation analysis (i.e., how much was budgeted versus how much was executed) of the investment budget it is necessary to exclude the lines corresponding to emprunt and subvention and leave only tresor public, which is the only part of the investment budget fully controlled by the Togolese Government.

In order to produce a very basic table disaggregating expenditure by economic classification ready to do deviation analysis, econ1 is placed in the Row Labels box, Year in the Column Labels box and the SOURCE_FINI (Tresor Public and blank) variables are used as a filter. The values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the Dotation initiale and Mandat Prise en Charge variables.

3.4. Example 4. Deviation Analysis
One of the most basic but revealing exercises you can do with BOOST is a deviation analysis; i.e., how much of the budget authorized by the National Assembly was executed at the end of the year. To do this, you need to follow the following steps:

1. Place Section in the Row Labels box, Year in the Column Labels box (filtering for the period between 2009 and 2011), and the values in the body of the table consist of the sum of the APPROVED and PAYMENT variables. You should get a table like the following one:

2. Create a new sheet called “Deviation”.
3. Go back to sheet Pivot Table. Copy the Table you created in step 1.
4. Paste the table in the cell A1 of sheet “Deviation”. We need to copy and paste the table in a different sheet because Pivot Tables do not have memory in case we introduce formulas in them. In other words, any analysis you do in this sheet will get lost if you create a new pivot table. At the end of this step, sheet “Deviation” should look like this:
5. In cell H3, write “Deviation 2009”. We will estimate the deviation between executed and budgeted amounts in this column.

6. In cell H4, write down the following formula: =C4-B4. This is the estimation of the difference between the executed and the budgeted amounts for 2009.
7. Extend the formula until it reaches the end of your table. At the end of this step, your table should look like this:

8. Repeat the process for 2010 and 2011.
